Witzhoff, Hoch and Holmes Mere Tyros in Game Compared to Him.

James Matthias Williams, under ar rest for bigamy in Philadelphia, has beaten the world's 'marrying, record with a score of one hundred wives and outlying districts still to hear from. A shein of Mrs. Williamses, extending from the pine-clad hills of Maine to the everglades of Florida," as the orators say, bears eloquent testimony to the enterprise of the "Mrs. Edith Ross Matrimonial Society," under whose fraudulent auspices Williams operated his schemes.

There have been other wholesale bigamists. Court records and newspaper files are full of them. The peculiar feature of the Williams case, besides the fact that the number of wives credited to Williams is almost double that of any other known bigamist, is that he appears to have loved but one ou of the hundred women he married, and that this one, whom he calls his "Little Tenie," helped him by posing as his daughter to marry the others.

The Williams method of marrying is enot a new one, but his astonishing success completely eclipses Dr. George A Witzhoff, who until Williams appeared held the matrimonial championship with a record of sixty-one wives.

Williams, posing as the conductor of a matrimonial bureau, advertised for wo men of moderate means who wished to marry. If, after some correspondence a woman's means met his expectations, he married her himself, got her money away from her and deserted her. If however, he decided she was not his class he married her to some who had written to the bureau for a wife, and collected a fee for his ser

But whateve his occupation, it served only as a side issue to the main industry of his life, the marrying and robbing women. Some idea of the extent o Dr. Witzhoff's matrimonial manocuvre may be gained from the following pa tial list of his victims compiled in 1965 at the time of his exposure:

A man who took a moderate flyer in the matrimonial market and succeeded in marrying a half dozen women before the police interfered, was known variously as "Lord" Cavendish, "Count" de Reineg. "Lord" Scholto Douglas and other numerous allases. "Lord Douglas," with a nice sense of discrimination and a proper appreciation of the Rower of a title, selected the South as his field of operation and North Carolina as his particular happy husting ground. One of his lordship's victims said ghe married him because he looked like kyrle Bellew, and his other wives, variously estimated as from four to seventeen, had no better reasons for marrying him. It was not until he wedded Josephine Hood at New Heria, i.a., in Lecember, 1005, that this lord of many trusting ladies got into fromble. MRS. C. S. SMITH.

I am in my seventy-fifth year, and for the last ten years I have been full of pains and aches, and had indigestion fear-fully bad. My food would generate gas, which would rise up and press on my heart with an ache like sticking a knife in it, and my arm—well, it would become almost paralyzed, and when I went for a walk I would have to stop every fow minutes; I was in so much pain I could not go along. I thought I would try diething, and entered the Boston City Hosoital in 1898. Stayed there two weeks on a strictly mitk diet, and my discharge reads: Condition relieved; no cure. Then I tried, patent medicines; took every kind advertised; result, no benefit.

I have not had my Vibrator three weeks yet, but it has made a new man of me. One day has week I walked three hours and came home feeling fine. I have also been troubled with insomnia; had to take medicine every night before going to bod to make me sleep. Have told the nurse that I did not want any more medicine, as the Vibrator was making a new man of me in more ways than one. Respectfully yours.
